We understand that this is a service you provide to all church members, but it made the close of the day for our family so peaceful and joyous as we each met with you and spoke of memories we shared. Vol. 69 No. 19 Cynthiana, Kentucky

Minister's Message:

Sunday afternoon I decided to watch the N.F.L. play-off games. Because of a family member, I was rooting for the Baltimore Ravens. In the second game, because of a close friend, I was rooting for the Chicago Bears. Guess what? My fan support did nothing for family or friend, they both lost. In the Ravens game rookie quarterback Lamar Jackson had a difficult time of it. At the beginning of the 4th quarter fans were booing him rather loudly. They had forgotten he was the one who had gotten them in the play-offs. They were wanting a replacement, Joe Flacco to enter the game. The last time he was on the field, he was getting booed as well. It is rather unexplainable how fickle fans are in any sport or activity. The next game was even more painful as the rookie kicker for the Chicago Bears tried the go ahead field goal. His kick hit the side-bar of the goal post and then dropped down to hit the crossbar and then fall to the ground. As a father of a kicker I can easily identify with that moment. I must admit however that Jordan had many more up rather than down moments in high school and college. It has been reported that the kicker for the Bears has already received many death threats. I don't imagine the rookie kicker will be residing very long in the windy city. I believe there is enough booing going on in our world. What about the ministry of encouragement that belongs to each of us? What a great difference it might make in our relationships if we were to accentuate the strengths of those around us. It seems to be far too easy to see the points of weakness of others rather than their positive traits. The next time you are tempted to judge the performance of others, you might just stop and think about how many times we fall short of our goals. Isn't it wonderful to be a part of a group of people who are always there to support us, even in spite of? I think you call those people family, physical family, church family, or your family of friends. They make us all feel like winners.
